

MEET
THE ARTISTS

Char Dangerfield Char is an Ontario-born, Vancouver-based artist who has always had a love for art and an interest in the impact of visual culture on the world. She is currently majoring in Critical and Cultural practices at Emily Carr University of Art + Design with a studio practice in drawing.

IG: @chardangerfield.art

Emily Gray Emily's style is a mix of vibrant illustrative realism, inspired by the West Coast of BC. She creates dynamic compositions that allow viewers to flow through the paintings and experience art on a larger scale. Emily believes paint can transform a space or building to tell a story and evoke many feelings. IG: @emilygrayart

Flavia Chan Ever since she could hold a pen, Flavia has been drawing rainbows, hearts and cats with spikes. She loves drawing, particularly cute things and sad things, and doesn't know if she could ever stop. Flavia holds a BFA in Illustration from Emily Carr University of Art + Design.

IG: @catscanpuke

Flory Huang A transdisciplinary artist and designer, Flory believes creation in various media is a method of connection with herself and with others. She is interested in surrealist visualizations that explore beauty, time, relationships and principles, such as power, truth and actualization. IG: @floriental

Graeme Zirk Graeme is an illustrator working and living in Vancouver. In addition to commercial and editorial illustration, he provides art direction and design for large retail brands such as Lush Cosmetics. His work has been featured in Communication Arts, The Creators Project and Vice Canada. IG: @ gramzirk

Jacqueline Lee An avid artist since she was old enough to grasp her toddler hand around a pencil, Jacqueline is a civil engineer who still finds time to fill sketchbooks.

IG: @jacquelineleeart

Jamie Tremblay Jamie comes from a long line of artisans. Originally from Saskatchewan, she currently lives in Vancouver and works as a designer/illustrator, nurturing a love for the miniature, adorable and dry. When she's not in the studio, Jamie can be found daydreaming with her puppies. IG: @jamiertremblay

Jenny Hsieh A Vancouver-based illustrator and a recent graduate from Emily Carr University of Art + Design, Jenny's illustrations are easy to recognize by their graphic style and lively colour combinations. Her artwork aims to evoke happiness and highlight life's ordinary moments in extraordinary ways. IG: @j.enh

Katie So Katie is an illustrator and tattoo artist from Vancouver. IG: @ghostmeadow

Kelsey Chevalier Most of Kelsey's inspirations come from real-life scenes, stories, people and pop culture. She believes that her artistic practice reflects the world in the same way we see memory -- similar to the way that memory is not perfect, but is instead, a rough blurry, imperfect representation. FB: @KreativeCreationsFSJ

Kyle Scott Kyle is a freelance illustrator living and working in Vancouver. His work primarily focuses on people and places. IG: @kjscottart

M W Bowen M W is a street artist and painter who works out of Vancouver. His work is known for its bright punches of colour and mash-ups of pop culture. If you're a downtown dweller, chances are you've come across one of his pieces. IG: @mwbowen_artist

M. Forest M. creates experiments in colours and textures. Much of her focus is on botanical forms. IG: @thelilacforest

Matthew Redway "Life and times of the mysteriously happy, wobbly-armed people." IG: @shampoo___art

Mike West A storyboard artist for the animation industry in Vancouver, Mike has worked on shows such as My Little Pony, Transformers: Rescue Bots, and Pound Puppies. He is currently working on the upcoming Carmen Sandiego. When he is not adventuring with his girl, Mike loves to paint and draw from life. IG: @westoon

Moorea Hum Moorea is a Vancouver-based tattoo artist living in East Van with her husband and two cats. IG: @mooreahum.tattoo

Nicky Kumar Nicky is a licensed pen and ink artist, specializing in the creation of mandalas, a meditative art form with origins in Buddhist and Hindu religions. Her art is an expression of her emotions and is often inspired by life's events, lessons and struggles. IG: @nickykumarart

Nico Cathcart Nicky is a licensed pen and ink artist, specializing in the creation of mandalas, a meditative art form with origins in Buddhist and Hindu religions. Her art is an expression of her emotions and is often inspired by life's events, lessons and struggles. IG: @nickykumarart

Priscilla Yu Priscilla is an artist, illustrator and muralist. Her colourfully-painted worlds dwell in a strange gravity, where the rules of physics are stretched and the inhabitants are adorned with elaborate clothing and large, open windows for eyes. IG: @priscillayuart

Priscilla Yu Priscilla is an artist, illustrator and muralist. Her colourfully-painted worlds dwell in a strange gravity, where the rules of physics are stretched and the inhabitants are adorned with elaborate clothing and large, open windows for eyes. IG: @priscillayuart

Rachael Ashe Rachael is a Vancouver-based, multidisciplinary artist working with paper to create intricate hand-cut designs, three dimensional sculpture, and modular installations. She is inspired by visual patterns found in nature, and influenced by textile processes and design. IG: @rachael_ashe

Sandeep Johal Sandeep is a Canadian-born South Asian artist living and working in Vancouver, Canada. Her geometric patterning and intricate linework is aesthetically and conceptually inspired by her South Asian heritage. IG: @sandeepjohalart

Sara Khan Sara lives and works in Vancouver, but was born in Birmingham, England and raised in Lahore, Pakistan. She holds a BFA (with honours) from the National College of Arts in Lahore. Her works have been featured in several national and international group exhibitions.
IG: @mindforking

School Souvenirs School Souvenirs is an open-ended project between Eric Seymour and Graeme Zirk. As roommates in design school, they often toyed with the idea of “doing a thing together”. School Souvenirs is their excuse to make tangible things that can be shared with people that feel the same way. IG: @schoolsouvenirs

Sitji Chou Sitji is a lethargic cat trapped in a human meat body. He works as an animator at Giant Ant in Vancouver. IG: @sitjichou

Steffi Lai Steffi is a freelance illustrator and painter who is inspired by nature and its creatures, the macabre, and just about anything cute. She drinks an excessive amount of tea and listens to true crime podcasts while she illustrates.
IG: @itstefinitelyart

Stephanie Broder Stephanie is an illustrator, book maker and student at Emily Carr University of Art + Design. She works primarily in marker and ink with frequent forays into digital and watercolour.
IG: @artofstephaniebroder

Syd Danger Syd is a work in progress. A graphic designer and illustrator, she spends her days drawing, reading comics and taking her cat on walks around the neighbourhood.
IG: @syd_danger

Taka Sudo Born and raised in Tokyo, Taka now resides in Vancouver. These totally different environments have influenced Taka’s unique style of artwork, but his most powerful and true inspiration is meeting people with amazing creativity from all over the world. IG: @tifdyl

Tierney Milne Tierney breaks down the world into shapes and forms that affect us in simple ways. Originally from Montreal, she now lives and works in Vancouver, creating animations, murals and fine art.
IG: @tierneymilne

Tony Chen Tony is a visual artist who contextualizes the traditional medium and technique into a contemporary visual representation. Juxtaposition is a strong motif in Tony’s works: “Through my lenses, I document or express the confusion of one’s identity and identification under the phenomenon of globalization.”

Yi Stropky Yi is a tattoo artist based in Vancouver’s Chinatown.
IG: @chinatown_stropky